PALESTINE PARTITION VOTE SET FOR TODAY

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — The United Nations assembly goes to a final vote today on partioning Palestine, with the contest so close that neither side would predict the outcome officially.

The long-awaited ballot on the Russian-American proposal to split the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab countries was expected in mid-afternoon.

The major development during the Thanksgiving recess was a dispatch from Port Au Prince saying the Haitian delegation, which had joined the Arab-led opposition to partition, had been instructed to vote for the division scheme. Such a reversal could give the pro-partitioners enough votes.

At adjournment Wednesday night 28 nations were supporting the plan and 15 were listed in opposition. This left the proposal short of the two-thirds (of those voting yes or no) necessary for passage, but a Haitian swing could put it over the hurdle.

CURLEY OUT OF CELL RETURNS TO OFFICE

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Nov. 28—Cheered by 450 flowers, James M. Curley today formally took over as mayor of Boston again after serving five months in federal prison for mail fraud.

Congenial as ever—but solemn-faced most of the time—the 73-year-old mayor told reporters "I'm just going to take up where I left off."

Then, he prodded photographers to hurry with their pictures "as I've got a day's work to do."

Looking drawn and tired, Curley said he nevertheless felt 10 years younger than when I went away."

About 300 waited outside an hour in biting cold for his arrival and another 100—most of them city hall employes—lined the stairways and corridor to his office.

They cheered and applauded—"Good Old Uncle Jim" and "Welcome Back."

Accidents Take Heavy Holiday Toll of Lives in State and Nation

Nine Ohioans were among the approximately 100 who lost their lives throughout the nation in traffic accidents over the Thanksgiving holiday, The Associated Press reported today.

A casualty list of 16 in other accidents brought the holiday toll for the nation to approximately 120.

Among the Ohio casualties were three who died in an automobile-bus crash at Orrville last night. Three others lost their lives in the state in other types of accidents.

Marion city and county escaped with only three minor accidents reported by city police and the state highway patrol.

Accidents in Ohio Claim 12 Lives

By The Associated Press

The Thanksgiving holiday traffic toll in Ohio had risen today to nine and three other persons were dead in related mishaps.

Three persons were killed and 12 bus passengers received minor injuries last night when an automobile collided with a northbound Greyhound bus on Route 94 about two miles north of Orrville, state highway patrolmen reported.

Killed in the collision were James Collins, 47, his wife, Helen, 45, and their son, William, 22, all of Orrville and occupants of a car driven by Collins.

Patrolmen said Collins' auto failed to stop at the intersection of Route 94 and county road 29, and the westbound car was struck broadside by the bus. Members of the Collins family were killed instantly and their car demolished.

Passengers in the bus, driven by Kenneth C. Pough, 40, of Columbus, received emergency treatment. No serious injuries were reported as 12 of the vehicle's 20 passengers were shaken up by the collision, patrolmen said.

Others dead from traffic accidents were:

Rev. Raymond Kraus, 27, Perrysburg, auto-truck crash near Crestline.

Leon Lofton, 22, two-car collision near Medina.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dillon of Huron, auto-train collision in Sandusky outskirts. Dillon was 73; his wife 68.

Donald R Peters, 7, Toledo, overturned car in home city.

Albert Lucci, 23, of Cleveland, auto struck fire hydrant and another car.

Joseph De Sario, 35, and his 22-year-old wife, Mary, came back to Akron for a holiday visit with relatives. They were found yesterday in their parked automobile, dead of what police said were carbon monoxide fumes. The Chicogoans apparently were overcome as they returned from a hunting trip.

Another holiday hunting accident claimed a life at Elyria, where the accidental discharge of a shotgun fatally wounded 66-year-old David Richards, who had returned home from hunting.

At Washington Court House, 10-year-old Frank Richard Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nichols, was critically injured in a family hunting expedition. The youngster was struck in the chest by a 12-gauge shotgun blast as he hunted with his father and another relative.

Crisp, cloudy weather—a preview of the winter to come—hit Ohio for the day of thanks. Snow ranged from powdery traces in many sections to 12 inches at Ashtabula, with scattered snowstorms predicted for the rest of today. The mercury apparently was headed for well below freezing marks in most sections.

Accident Toll In U. S. Listed at 116

Approximately 100 persons were killed in traffic accidents and 16 others died in violent accidents over the Thanksgiving holiday.

A survey across the country today disclosed that since 6 p. m. Wednesday, 98 persons lost their lives as a result of automobile mishaps, with New York and Illinois leading the nation, each with 11 fatalities. The 16 deaths from miscellaneous causes resulted from drowning, hunting and airplane accidents.

The traffic toll surpassed the total of 69 reported on Thanksgiving day last year and the overall total of 114 this year compared to 83 in 1946.

Only Three Minor Accidents Reported Here

Marion and Marion county escaped with a light toll of damage in holiday traffic accidents. Only three minor accidents were reported by city police and the state highway patrol today.

A car driven by Lloyd Ray Herbert, 28, of 753 Henry street, was damaged in the right rear fender when it skidded into a parked truck at 697 North Main street at 11:27 a. m. Thursday. Mr. Herbert told police that a car cut in front of him as he was driving south on Main street, forcing him to jam on his brakes, which caused him to slide into the truck. The other driver of the south-bound car did not stop after the accident.

At 8:43 a. m. today cars driven by Robert Leroy Lucas, 30, of near Richwood, and Norman White, 20, of 183 Jefferson street, collided at the intersection of South Prospect and Bellefontaine avenue, damaging both cars.

Considerable damage resulted at 8 p m. yesterday when cars driven by Clarence A. Nash, 47, of Carey and Lloyd Pfahler of Mansfield collided on route 30-south three miles east of Caledonia, according to reports by state patrolmen today.

CLEVELANDER SLAYS 'GRANDSON HE LOVED'

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 28 — Eleven-year-old Donald J. Hurley today was found hammered to death in his bed at his grandparents' home, where he had spent Thanksgiving, and Police Lt. Peter Allen quoted the grandfather as saying he killed the boy.

"I don't know why I did it. I loved the boy," Allen said the grandfather, Joseph Hurley, 62, told him.

Arrested at a West Side dairy where he was employed as a salesman-collector, Hurley was taken to Central police station, where Allen said charges would be filed against him.

The boy was found by his grandmother, Mrs. Estella Hurley.

Lt. Allen said Hurley told him he arose early this morning, poured himself a glass of milk and went after a hammer to repair a faucet on the second floor, where the boy was sleeping in a rear bedroom.

The officer said Hurley recounted "I was going to fix the hot water faucet. I walked by his bedroom. I walked in and hit him four or five times. I don't know why I did it. I loved the boy. I went down and hid the hammer under the sofa.

The boy was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. James Hurley of suburban Westlake. The father, a shop foreman, said he believed the grandfather "resented" the boy because he showed "preference" for his grandmother.

The three generations of the Hurley family had Thanksgiving dinner yesterday at the grandparents home on the West Side and the grandmother and grandson last night attended a movie.

PROPOSE PART PAYMENT ON RUSSIAN BILL

French Suggest Giving Soviet $100,000,000 Out of Production in Austria.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 28—France proposed today Russia receive $100,000,000 from current production in Austria as part of the general reparations settlement, a qualified source said.

The proposal was made to deputies of the Big Four foreign ministers who were seeking agreement on a treaty of independence and peace for Austria. The ministers themselves were considering the future of Germany and its boundaries.

The informant said the French suggested that Russia receive a third of the production of the Zisterdorf oil fields indefinitely and take over virtually all Austrian shipping on the Danube. A Russian source forecast that the Soviet Union would reject the French compromise on the issue of what constitutes German assets in Austria.

The French proposals were said to have been made in a new attempt to break the deadlock among Russia, the United States, Great Britain and France on what constitute German assets in Russia and what might be used for reparations.

The deputies have been snarled for four months on the issue of German assets in Austria. The French compromise avoided definitions of assets. It called upon all countries to list their reparations claims on Austria and say for how much they would settle.

The Soviet informant said Russia will await the outcome of the council deliberations about Germany before committing herself on Austria. Conclusion of a peace treaty with Austria would necessitate occupation troops leaving.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault had lunch with Secretary of State Marshall, French Ambassador Rene Massigli and U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas.

Wants to Settle Down

French informants said Bidault, presiding at the fourth session this afternoon, would ask his colleagues to get back to the items under discussion on the procedure for writing a German peace treaty and the future frontiers of the Reich. He was said to have expressed the view that political irrelevancies had entered the discussions yesterday.

Bidault was represented as anxious to get a decision approving amputation of the Saar valley from Germany in the belief that such a diplomatic victory would sooth internal French politics.

Just as Trieste became the diplomatic problem child during the quest for an Italian peace treaty, so have Poland's boundaries—advised at least temporarily by the big powers after the victory—become a major threat to the council's effort to reach agreement on a peace pact for Germany.

Dispute Over Poland

SEES LOWER PRICES FROM TRUMAN PLAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—Secretary of Commerce Harriman said today lower prices for meats, steel and lumber are "hopes" from President Truman's 10-point "anti-inflation" program.

The cabinet member, testifying before the senate house economic committee, mentioned these lower price goals in response to a series of questions by Senator Watkins (D-Utah) about the "overall plans" of the administration.

Earlier, Harriman and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) had clashed over whether the administration is acting in "good faith" in asking for allocation controls.

Taft said he thought it was not—that the administration is "talking about limited authority" but actually seeking "unlimited controls."

Harriman protested that there was quite a difference between limited authority and complete controls.

When the price matter was raised, Watkins first asked if the anti-inflation program "contemplates a rollback of prices?"

Harriman replied that through controls and allocations it was expected that "less essential" demands might be cut down and scarce supplies given to most pressing demands. He said meats would be in shorter supply next year than now.

14 High Nazi Military Leaders Face Charges

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Nov. 28—Three German field marshals, 10 generals and one admiral—last of the important military figures in the Nazi high command to be tried by United States authorities—have been indicted on charges of crimes against peace and humanity.

The 14 are accused in a U. S. indictment made public today, of planning, preparing, initiating and waging wars of aggression and invasion of other countries, of murder, torture, deportations, enslavement into forced labor and mistreatment of millions of persons; of plunder of public and private property; of wanton devastation and destruction of cities, towns and villages and of "other grave crimes."

"The origin, developments and backgrounds of their crimes may be traced through many decades of German militarism," Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief American prosecutor, stated in the 59-page indictment.

The defendants are:

Field Marshal Wilhelm Von Leeb, who commanded the 12th army which occupied the Sudetenland, and later was an army group commander-in-chief in the invasion of France.

Field Marshall Hugo Sperrle who commanded the German air fleet which bombed England from its bases in France.

Field Marshal Georg Karl Freidrich Wilhelm Von Kuechler, who commanded the 18th army and later the army group north, both in Russia.

Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, who commanded German forces in the Netherlands.

Gen. Hermann Hoth, commander of the Fourth Panzer army and later in army group center in Russia.

Gen. Hans Von Salmuth, commander of the 15th army in the French campaign.

Gen. Karl Holidt, commander of the Sixth army in southern Russia and later liaison officer to Hitler's reichschancery.

Adm. Otto Schtewind, operations officer, chief of the navy armament office and later commander of naval battle forces in Norway and naval group north in the North Sea.

Lt. Gen. Karl Von Rouques, in southern Russia and commander of the rear area of army group A in the Caucasus.

Lt. Gen. Walter Warlimont chief of the department of national Socialist guidance staff of the high command.

All the defendants except Roques and Woehler are charged with crimes against peace. Ten of them figure in the charges of war crimes and crimes against humanity, mainly in Russia.

The indictment alleges that American and British parachutists and uniformed members of commando task forces were executed under an army order that they "be slaughtered to the last man."

U. S. Areas Report Variety of Weather

By The Associated Press

Cold weather lingered over the northeastern quarter of the country today and federal forecasters said there was no immediate relief in sight.

In other sections of the country, temperatures were moderate and sunny skies were predicted for most of the south and west.

New seasonal lows were reported in some sections of the midwest. The coldest weather was in Minnesota with Duluth's two below lowest on the early morning weather map. Minneapolis and St. Cloud shivered in zero temperatures. Chicago's 12 above was a new low for the season.

HUNT KILLER OF RICH RECLUSE

"Dan the Mooch," C. & O. Lamplighter, Slain in Shack; Leaves $25,000.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28 — Police searched vainly today for clues leading to the slayer of an old lamplighter who possessed a hidden fortune of more than $25,000.

Apparently 67-year-old Donato (Dan-the-Mooch) Mucci, an Italian immigrant recluse who lived in a rickety shack near the railroad tracks, was the victim of a would-be robber.

He died of a crushed skull yesterday in St. Francis hospital, nearly 20 hours after a passing section foreman found the elderly railroad lamplighter lying in his littered shanty with a gaping head wound.

Missing was his snap-top purse, an old-fashioned container his acquaintances said he always carried.

Robbery Theory

This led police to theorize a robber was responsible — a theory bolstered by discovery of $500 in cash and bank deposit books recording a total of nearly $25,000 stuffed into an old coffee can.

Police also found a receipt and a key for a safety deposit box, in which acquaintances believed would be found several bonds purchased by Mucci. The box was to be opened today.

It apparently was no particular secret that Mucci had money. He had worked for the old Hocking Valley and the Chesapeake and Ohio railroads for about 40 years, living in destitution the while.

"I expected this a long time ago and warned him about it," said Special Agent Daniel J. Goodman of the C. & O. railroad, who participated in preliminary investigation.

Detectives threw up baffled hands after a cursory inspection of the slatternly shack in which the recluse lived. They reported it "was in such a mess it couldn't be determined whether it had been searched."

They said the eccentric Italian appeared to have saved everything he ever owned. Junk of amazing diversity jammed the one-room building. Pots, pans, cans, tools, bundles of matches, old rags, lengths of string—these were some of the things which were stacked around on the floor, the meager furniture and shelves.

Authorities said they were trying to locate a brother, Samuel Mucci, believed to be living in Detroit.

Heirs to the modest fortune left by Mucci were unknown at present, but the old immigrant once told friends he left southern Italy, his homeland, after a family quarrel.

He once applied for United States citizenship, but apparently never followed through. He was registered as an enemy alien during World War II.

For several years he had been the old lamplighter in the C. & O. yards in Columbus, ever since he underwent amputation of a leg injured in a railroad accident.

OLDEST RESIDENT OF GALION DIES

Mrs. Euphemia Longstreth Taken in Sleep, Was 100.

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 28 — Galion's oldest citizen, Mrs. Euphemia Longstreth who last March 21 reached the century mark, died as she had wished, in her sleep, about 9:30 a. m., Thursday.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m., in the Snyder funeral home, with Rev. Herbert S. Garnes, Jr., officiating. Burial will be made in Fairview cemetery.

Born at Beavertown, Morgan county, March 21, 1847, the daughter of George and Nancy (Weaver) Swingle, Mrs. Longstreth was married to Thomas W. Longstreth who died in 1921. For 74 years, Mrs. Longstreth had lived on the same site in Galion. She built the present business block where she lived in a second-floor apartment, in 1923. The block houses the Longstreth Monument works now managed by her son, Homer.

Also surviving is a second son, Earl, of Turlock, California, four grandchildren, Murral Longstreth, Robert Longstreth, Betty Arighi and Barbara Wemmer; four great grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Rosa Swingle of Glen Ferris, West Virginia.

Mrs. Longstreth was affectionately known to her friends here as "Aunt Phemy." On her 99th birthday anniversary, she was able to recall events and acquaintances almost as well as in her early years. She then spent some of her time in tatting, reading the daily newspapers and the Bible, listening to the radio, and watching traffic and people on Galion's main street from her apartment in the first block west of the public square.

Her 100th birthday last spring was a joyful event and at that time she said she found it difficult for her to realize that she was a hundred years old. Her philosophy of life had been one of never worrying, always keeping her mind busy, and taking a cheerful outlook on all matters. She had traveled considerably throughout the United States, making two trips to California, and one to Canada.

She was the oldest member of First Lutheran church of Galion, the oldest church of the city.

TRUMAN PREPARES RECOVERY MESSAGE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—President Truman's message to congress on the long-range European recovery plan likely will not be ready before Dec. 8.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today he thinks it is unlikely the message will be ready to send to Capitol Hill until after Mr. Truman returns from Florida.

The President is leaving next Wednesday for a rest at Key West and a dedication speech at Everglades National Park Dec. 6. He will return to Washington Dec. 8.

Ross said the question as to whether the President will recommend a separate agency for administration of the long-range program, often called the Marshall plan, is being considered now.

Senate supporters of the $597,000,000 emergency aid to Europe plan worked toward passage of the measure early next week, but at least four amendments are to be considered.

15 DIVISIONS NOW ON DUTY IN EMERGENCY

Action Taken After Vote of Confidence; 66 Police Commissioners Fired.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Nov. 28—France called an additional 80,000 conscript troops to the colors today to help meet the emergency caused by an epidemic of strikes which slowly are strangling French economic life.

The cabinet's decision, reached in a session of more than four hours, brought to 15 divisions the total of military forces called up within a week to deal with the threat of civil strife arising from Communist-supported strikes involving 2,000,000 men.

The decision followed an announcement that 66 police commissioners, each of them in charge of a district, were fired by the government. There was no official explanation. The Communist newspaper, L'Humanite, called it a purge.

Premier Robert Shuman's new cabinet, which met under the chairmanship of Socialist President Vincent Auriol, announced that the second half of the 1946 class of conscripts was being called into uniform. Half the class of 1947 was called up last week.

The ministry of war refused to confirm a report that French troops on duty in occupied Germany were being brought back to Paris to reinforce local forces.

Fears Red Police Control

Schuman is known to be afraid of letting the Communists gain control of the French police.

Armed with a fresh vote of confidence, he met with his new cabinet to consider means of fulfilling his promise to the chamber of deputies early this morning that "proofs of the government's energy" in combatting the ominous wave of strikes would be displayed before the day is ended.

His government, less than a week old, won a narrow victory in the chamber at 4:15 a. m., the final count showing 322 for him and 186 against him, with 63 abstentions. That was 90 votes less than he got in his first vote of confidence last Saturday. His popular Republican party and the Socialists backed him, the Communists voted against him and Rightists abstained.

Strike Control Plan Sought

Informed sources said the cabinet would work on a plan by Schuman calling for some regulation of the right to strike, including secret votes by workers before issuance of a strike call.

A decree in today's official journal called up for military service some groups of 20-year-olds hitherto exempt. Another decree gave the force of law to a government decision to have all workers in private industry paid a 1,500 franc ($12) cost-of-living bonus every month. The effect of this is to raise the national minimum wage to 9,750 francs ($82) a month. Strike leaders already have said this does not meet their demands for higher pay.

Schuman, who is confronted with a Russian government demand that 19 Soviet citizens — whose arrest was reported Tuesday on charges of interfering in French labor affairs—be brought to the Soviet embassy at once, told the assembly in the final stages of debate this morning that with regard to the strikes "this day will not pass without your getting sure and effective proofs of the government's energetic attitude."

The number of strikers was estimated today at 2,000,000.

Capital Capers

By Frederick Othman

WASHINGTON

YOU don't have to push buttons or worry with thermowhatsits when you use coal. Just shovel it in the furnace (keeping on your hat in case of soot) and it heats your house.

There's never any shortage of coal, except of course when John L. Lewis gets ideas. Coal, when varnished and allowed to dry, is beautiful.

These and other facts as interesting, plus a chunk of burnished coal, came to me by special messenger in a bobay blue box from T. A. Day, the go-getting coal man.

OTHMAN

Coal Man Day, a spokesman of the Bituminous Coal Institute, which is an affiliate of the National Coal Association, said he saw by the papers where somebody in Sacramento, Calif., sent me a brickbat. That's a start toward a house, all right, he added, and someday I'll need to keep it warm.

So he enclosed one lamp of coal with the compliments of the industry that lights the way, fuels the future, and powers the progress of America. That, I hasten to add for the benefit of the natural gas, atomic, and petroleum industries, is a coal man talking; not me. I burn corn cobs.

Coal Man Day said in order to protect my new piece of coal he and his associates at the Institute had given it two coats of varnish. They had, too, and I only wish I could have been there watching the head coal men in their frock coats sitting around the broad-of-directors' table varnishing my coal.

It's as pretty a piece of coal as a fellow could want; sparkles like diamonds, of which it is a close relative. (Not close enough, if you ask me.

MY CHUNK OF COAL, the coal man continued, weighs one pound and contains enough energy, converted into electricity, to burn a lamp for seven and one-half hours. I'll let that pass, but I would like to see it done. Coal Man Day said my piece of coal would operate a small radio for 25 hours. I'll take his word for this; if he tries to prove it, I'll throw it at him.

"Other lumps of coal provide the driving force behind 70 out of every hundred locomotives in the United States," he reported in language which grew more stirring as it went along. "It furnishes light and brilliance to the gay white way—to the nation's capitol and the White House—and two-thirds of the lights in America. Coal was the backbone . . .

Enough of that. One more paragraph of his prose and the boss would give my job to the coal man. Day said, and I paraphrase him from now on, that this year America will harvest 3,000,000,000 tons of cotton, 41,000,000 tons of wheat 76,000,000,000 tons of corn and 60,000,000 tons of bituminous coal (John L. Willing). Coal, he continued, is a greater crop than all the others combined.

I DIDN'T EVEN KNOW it was a crop, thus proving what an ignorant fellow I am. Coal, the coal man said, is beyond compare as a chemical raw material. He said it produces 200,000 by-products, but he didn't enclose the list.

He mentioned only a few, including aspirin, with which he said it might be familiar, and baking soda, about which he thought I also knew. Some people would consider that an insult, not me, because I, too, am aborne away by the romance of bituminous coal.

It also is good for chasing moths, flavoring cakes, perfuming ladies, dyeing Easter eggs, fertilizing potatoes, and blowing out stumps. Or so said coal Man Day. Now if ye'll just send me more facts and perhaps a sample of those diamonds . . .

Your Good Health

Treacherous Disease With Indefinite First Symptoms

Pernicious anemia is a treacherous disease, coming on slowly without any very definite symptoms to attract either the attention of the patient or his friends. Tiredness, weakness, and digestive disturbances are among its early signs but, as these can often be assigned to so many other causes, the correct diagnosis may be overlooked.

As the disease progresses, the patient feels weak to the point of faintness, the skin takes on a peculiar yellowish tinge, there are numbness and tingling of the hands and feet, and rapid noticeable beating of the heart.

From time to time, the patient may seem to improve, even when no treatment is given, but such improvement is illusory and of short duration, and, when the relapse comes, the whole picture is worse than before.

Since pernicious anemia is a disorder affecting the blood, examination of the blood by microscopic and laboratory tests will reveal it with certainty. For example, there is a decrease in the number of red cells, with a much lesser decrease in the amount of coloring matter. The red blood cells may appear larger than normal. There is also a lack of acid in the stomach.

The exact cause of this condition is not known. However, it has been definitely established that the disease occurs because of a lack of substances which have been called the anti-anemic factor. Hence, treatment of the condition consists of the giving of this anti-anemic factor in the form of liver, liver extract, stomach preparations, and folic acid. Folic acid is a part of the vitamin B-complex.

Unfortunately, these substances do not cure the condition, but they control it so well that the disease is kept at buy so long as they are continued. If they are stopped, the disease returns with full force. Thus, for the patient with pernicious anemia, treatment must be lifelong.

With proper treatment the blood returns to normal, most of the symptoms disappear, and little or no evidence of the disease can be found. This response to treatment serves as a confirmation of the diagnosis of pernicious anemia. Adequate treatment causes a rapid disappearance of all the symptoms of the disease, prevents the development of other symptoms, halts the progress of the condition, and restores the patient to well-being.

Unfortunately, when the disease has been allowed to progress to the point where damage to the nervous system has occurred, treatment is not so successful. Once this nervous system damage has been well established, treatment will bring about little, if any, improvement in the symptoms due to the nervous system damage, although it improves the condition of the blood.

Thus, it may be seen how important early diagnosis is in pernicious anemia. If the diagnosis is made early and treatment promptly started, damage to the nervous system may perhaps be warded off.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What causes excessive perspiration, and is there any cure for it?

Answer: There are certain abnormal conditions which possibly will make sweating more profuse. These include all chronic infections, such as tuberculosis or low grade infections in the sinuses, the teeth, or the tonsils. Hyperthyroidism, or increased secretion from the thyroid gland, is also a cause of excessive perspiration.

In order to overcome excessive perspiration, you should bathe daily. It would be well to dab the affected parts of the body with a mild solution of aluminum chloride every other day, for a short period of time. There is no danger in checking excessive perspiration.

The department decides there's ...t enough steel to fill all the ...mands for it here and abroad. It says only so much steel can ...e shipped overseas. And it figures ...t how much steel it will let go ...any one country or any one ...exporter.

In this way it sets up quotas ...ere's how they work:

Suppose the department decides ...t 100,000 tons of steel can be ...exported to France this year. ...And suppose there are 1,000 ...exporters, each wanting to ship ...100 tons to France. That would ...be 1,000,000 tons instead of the ...quota of 100,000.

...In that case, the department ...might decide to limit each of the ...1,000 exporters to 100 tons, so the total shipped would be 100,000 tons.

(Actually it never divides up quotas equally among exporters that way.)

Before an exporter can ship a controlled item overseas, he must get an export license from the department.

Something else come in. Suppose steel is selling for $100 a ton at the mill.

And suppose an exporter buys a ton at $100 and exports it at $300 a ton. That's an inflated price, a profiteering price.

The government—Mr. Truman, for instance — wants to prevent any such profiteering for a reason like this.

Inflated prices on exported items drain just that many more dollars away from countries which need dollars badly to buy many things.

DOESN'T THE EXPORT CONTROL law give the commerce department power to control the price of exported items?

Experts in the department of commerce aren't sure because the law doesn't say so in so many words.

So Mr. Truman wants congress not only to renew the export control law but give the commerce department some control over export prices.

Commerce department people say they now have only 200 persons handling export controls but will need about 700 by next July, if the law is renewed.

They say that with more people now they could do a better control job. But congress will have to decide this one, too.

Portsmouth Steel Mill Completes Improvement

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 29—Completion of a $100,000 improvement in its blooming mill was announced today by Portsmouth Steel Corp. as another step in a vast modernization program which began shortly after the corporation was formed 17 months ago.

President Elmer A. Schwartz said the blooming mill improvements will increase tonnage, improve the steel quality, eliminate a hazardous job formerly done by hand and add to the mill's flexibility.

FAVOR RENT CONTROLS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — Recommendation for continued rent controls in six Ohio cities were in the hands of Tighe E. Woods, acting housing expediter, today. Woods said that advisory boards of Washington C. H., the Gallipolis-Pomeroy area, Sidney, Newark and Ashtabula had recommended continued controls.

THE YEAR'S LAST FLOWERS

Editor of The Star: Until a week or so ago, when the temperature dropped to freezing and stayed there, the Marion county roadsides still offered occasional blossoms to those who were willing to hunt for them. A late spray of asters, while not as richly colored as its more seasonable relatives, nodded defiantly with a goldenrod or two to keep it company. But even these tardy bloomers succumbed as Jack Frost tucked his landscape painting under his arm and fled before winter's scowl.

But if you care to seek it out, and in a woods is the best place to search, you may be lucky enough to find a flower that seems to have winter confused with spring, for as the shrub on which it grows loses its leaves this flower, reversing the usual procedure, starts to bloom. What a delightful surprise to come upon it in a dead season when you expect nothing more than a deserted bird's nest, or animal tracks along a creek, or one lonesome titmouse to enliven a winter's hike. And if the sun should happen to strike those yellow blossoms that seem to spring from every point along the branch, and the wind should flutter the tiny curled yellow ribbons that are petals, it will be a sight to remember and cherish through dark winter days.

Yes, the witch-hazel (Hamamelis virginiana) is certainly a topsy-turvy plant. It is accorded the honor of being the last flower of the year to bloom. However, we found our first witch-hazel on one of those warm, sunny days that February sometimes offers, and mistakenly thought it was just February sunshine the credit. But those flowers had been there since late fall and the warm day had brought us out—not them.

Aside from the novelty of its odd blooming time, the witch-hazel is interesting for the fact that last year's seed ripen with this year's flowers. Children familiar with the woods know that the protective husk acts as a sling shot to propel the seeds to prospective homesites. So in admiring those delicate flowers on a warm day now—beware! We've had enough frost to open the husks which have been maturing for a year, and a dry sunny day will cause the edges of the cups to curl inward and force the seeds out, shooting them sometimes to 40 feet, the naturalists say. Then to continue in character these seeds daily for two years before starting to grow. Leisure seems to be the keynote of the witch-hazel!

But regardless of its unorthodox behavior the witch-hazel is a useful plant. Few medicine chests but that boast a bottle of the soothing lotion made from its juices. And who are we to say that a witch-hazel twig in the proper hands cannot locate water, or even gold?

GROUP ACTS TO KILL RIVER SEAWAY PLAN

Former Marion Man Heads Body Opposing Proposal.

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—Carroll B Huntress, chairman of the National St Lawrence Project Conference said today that opponents of the St Lawrence seaway were preparing to defeat the project in the next regular session of congress "so that the idea will be a dead one for a long time."

Huntress, whose organization opposes the seaway, said the campaign was aided by private interests in the midwest and southwest in addition to support of eastern organizations including the Board of Underwriters of New York and the New York State Waterways association.

He said opponents of the project felt that the next session of congress would be "the determining period" and planned to present data refuting an estimate of the department of commerce that the seaway could handle twice the previous volume of traffic.

Huntress said most American vessels would be unable to use the channels resulting in a loss of millions of tons of business to foreign tonnage.

C B Huntress, chairman of the association opposing the St Lawrence seaway, was the first secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce. He held the position several years ago, leaving here about 30 years ago to become secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Allentown, Pa.

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., Nov 28 — Dean W. B Alexander, vice president of century-old Antioch college, has been appointed acting president effective Jan. 1, the board of trustees disclosed yesterday.

HOUSE OPENS HUNT FOR MORE WAR FRAUD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov 28 — The congressional hunt for fraud in war contracting moves into the house wing of the capitol next week with an advance hint more uniformed purchasing officers may be called to account.

Rep Bender (R-Ohio), chairman of an expenditures subcommittee in charge of the inquiry, told a reporter today he is not out to compete with the senate war investigating committee but thinks his group will match the record of the senate body.

"It was a wartime [illegible] subcommittee which unearthed the story of Maj. Gen Bennett E Meyers' extra-curricular activities as an air force purchasing officer.

Those disclosures, including the secret ownership of a Dayton, O., subcontracting firm, already have cost the retired general his $461 a month pension and brought the threat of prosecution in both civil and military courts.

"We are not out hunting headlines," Bender said, "but we have been working hard on this (house committee inquiry) for several months. We have jurisdiction over all purchasing, military and the rest, and we have some fraud cases on plane contracts ready to go."

Bender declined to comment on any specific case. But he said investigators have been looking into the relations of several wartime purchasing officers with manufacturers later listed as having been highly overpaid by the government.

The committee, he added, plans to retrace these transactions to determine whether any of the officers were being cut in on the contracts.

Customer Helps Nab Restaurant Robber

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 28 — A restaurant customer who turned amateur sleuth apparently offered a quick solution of a $145 cafe holdup, Detective Chief Clem Merz opened yesterday.

Merz credited Philip Eisner of Cincinnati with arresting a gunman who held up and robbed a woman cashier at a downtown restaurant. Merz said Eisner followed the suspect and pointed him out to arresting officers.

Merz identified the suspect as Earl Waldren, 40, Peebles, O., who was charged with armed robbery.

JOSEPH A. PARK

O.S.U. DEAN OF MEN Y'S MEN'S SPEAKER

Joseph A. Park Addresses "Ladies Night" Meeting.

Joseph A. Park, dean of men at Ohio State university, was the guest speaker at the Y's Men's club "ladies' night" held Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The subject of his talk was "A Wee Bit of Scotch" and his discussion of Scotland and famous Scots was interspersed with many Scotch anecdotes. He mentioned that the Scots tell "thrift" stories themselves on the natives of Aberdeen, Scotland.

Having been interested in Y. M. C. A. work as a student at O. S. U. he acted as secretary of the university "Y" for seven years following graduation in 1920. Ohio State university was growing rapidly during that period and Park was made "student counselor" to supervice and guide student activities. In 1929 his title was changed to "dean of men" and he holds the distinction of being the only dean of men Ohio State has ever had.

Mr. Park has been responsible for the organization of the student senate, student court, the stadium dormitories and a fraternity system described as the best in the nation. He has also been instrumental in forming the statewide Mothers' and Dads' Associations to achieve a closer relationship between the university and the parents of its students.

The Ohio State dean is a past president of the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men; has served as president of the National Conference of College Fraternities and Sororities, treasurer of the Ohio-West Virginia area Y. M. C. A.'s and as a member of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A.'s; and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

Guests for the evening, in addition to the club members' wives were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foster, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lautenslager, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hale.

President Richard Myers presided at the dinner and expressed the thanks of the club to James Bull for the work of his committee in arranging the evening. An invitation was also extended to the wives to attend the annual children's home Christmas party to be given by the Y's Men on Dec. 18 in the Club Co-Ed rooms at the Y. M. C. A.

Livestock Exposition Wide Open Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 28—The International Livestock Exposition—featuring the accomplishments that have enabled American agriculture to help feed a hungry world—will open tomorrow for an eight day run.

Sponsors predicted more than 300,000 city dwellers and farmers would view the 12,835 blue-blooded farm animals and near perfect samples of grain and hay that will fill the 20 acres of the big international amphitheater on South Halsted street.

Exhibits have been entered from 32 states and three Canadian provinces.

The Why and Wherefore

IT BEGINS to be plainer what lies behind the determined drive of union executives to make the Taft-Hartley act as political issue in 1948.

Whether the executives must convince their followers this law to break up the monopoly powers of certain union czars is against the interests of all union members, all the efforts of the last 14 years to convince the same followers that they should abandon union labor's non-partisan policy in politics will have been wasted.

The union executives desperately need an issue to keep the class war going. They must have a rallying cry for unionists turning against the strategists of class warfare who worked close to Franklin D. Roosevelt. They have only one chance left to organize class war in the United States along political lines—and that chance is to keep union members divided from the rest of the population, according to old-world doctrines of a worker class, a bourgeoise and an aristocracy.

Ironically, the only issue available was a federal enactment designed to prevent that very thing—a bill of rights for working people designed to keep them from being enslaved by political bosses disguised as labor leaders.

The men who drafted the Taft-Hartley act, the men who voted for it and the text of the law itself had to be misrepresented to union members; otherwise, the labor politicians would have been forced to go into the presidential campaign with no issue.

Bonus Boomerang

NEW York State approved a veterans' bonus the same day Ohio did. Officials in charge of the New York bonus payments have announced that application blanks will be ready for distribution before the end of December.

Ohio's sinking fund commission has held one meeting without approving application forms. There are reports it will be about four months before Ohio is ready to make payments. Some of the more cynical observers predict one unforeseen delay after another may hold up payments even beyond that—say until next autumn just before election, when bonus checks will be issued with the names of certain elective officials on them in large, clear type.

If this is what comes to pass, the responsible officials may find they have allowed themselves to get clipped on the back of the neck by a boomerang. Stalling almost a year on bonus payments would hardly be the way to bid for a veteran's support at the polls.

Repaying Grants in Kind

THE house select committee on foreign aid has been looking into the possibilities of how Europe could repay at least part of its Marshall plan aid. It says, "a review of world resources on this basis would produce astonishing results in terms of possibilities of repayment." Particularly cited were Labrador's iron deposits, British oil holdings in Venezuela and France's chrome and nickel deposits in New Caledonia.

It seems fair that we should eventually receive some repayment for the resources we are planning to pour out to Europe. Our high-grade iron ore fields are being whittled away; in terms of demand, our oil reserves aren't large; chrome and nickel are far from plentiful. Many items in short supply go into the processing of materials for countries needing our help.

There is strong sentiment in favor of aiding war-wrecked nations. Such opposition as there is stems principally from the fact that our aid is too much in the form of outright grants. This opposition would be largely dissipated if there was an indication at least part of the grants would be repaid in raw materials.

No Ban on Campus Reds

BY A VOTE of 10 to 6, the New York board of higher education has turned down an amendment to bar what it believes to be subversive organizations at its four municipal colleges. The measure was aimed principally at the American Youth for Democracy and the Young Communist league.

By declining to drive the campus Communists underground, the board strips these organizations of the attraction of the secret fraternity. It won't be necessary for their members to have code names and meet at midnight in candlelighted cellars. They can hold their "youth forums" whenever and wherever they wish and no one will say them nay. The board has made belonging to these organizations no more glamorous than membership in Le Cercle Francais or the Senior Science circle.

Does History Repeat?

By George E. Sokolsky

Two Top Officials Once Tried To Sell Out America.

THIS country once had a vice president who was undoubtedly mad. He was maddened by unsatisfied ambition to gain the presidency. He had killed a man in bitterness over that failure. He now was engaged in a conspiracy to destroy the United States. To that conspiracy he managed to attract many men and women, some of them of importance in national affairs. He even sought to sell his country and its heritage to foreign nations and negotiated with both Great Britain and Spain for financial support. One of his principal lieutenants held a major post in the United States Army, but even while in that post he was a pensioner of a foreign government and did its bidding. The mad former vice president was, of course, Aaron Burr.

The British ambassador to the United States, who was a party to this conspiracy, wrote:

"It is astonishing that the government here should have remained so long in ignorance of the intended design as even not to know with certainty at this moment the object of the preparations which they have learned are now making."

Entered Into Conspiracy

General James Wilkinson was the governor-general of the new Louisiana territory which the United States had purchased from France. But it was this same James Wilkinson who, as early as 1787, had entered into a conspiracy with Governor Miro, then the Spanish ruler of Louisiana, to separate American territory west of the Alleghenies and form it into a vast empire under the protection of Spain. This particular movement failed, but when Burr appeared on the scene it was one of the various schemes that formed the amalgam of his treason. Henry Adams recounts that Joseph H. Daveiss, who was a United States district attorney in Kentucky, wrote President Jefferson:

"A separation of the union in favor of Spain is the object finally. I know not what are the means . . ." He also warned the president that General Wilkinson ". . . has been for years, and now is, a pensioner of Spain . . ."

Reading Names In Plot

It is astonishing to read the names of the leading citizens who somehow found their way into the Burr plot. But the most incongruous name of all is that of Andrew Jackson, who seemed to be head over heels involved in it. Henry Adams says of this:

"On Jackson's part this conduct was peculiarly surprising, because more than a month before he had written to Governor Claiborne at New Orleans a secret denunciation of Burr and Wilkinson, couched in language which showed such intimate knowledge of Burr's plans as could have come only from Burr himself or Adair.

In accepting Burr's disavowals, December 14, Jackson did not mention to Burr his denunciatory letter written to Claiborne, November 12, in which he said, 'I fear treachery has become the order of the day.' Like Senator Smith, he was satisfied to secure his own safety; and upon Burr's denial to treasonable schemes, Jackson, although he did not write to Claiborne to withdraw the secret charges, went on building boats, providing supplies, and enlisting men for Colonel Burr's expedition. His motives for this conduct remained his own secret."

The Conspiracy Failed

Of course, the Burr conspiracy failed. It was Wilkinson, general in the Army and servant of an alien government, that finally destroyed Burr, undoubtedly to save himself and his alien masters. Wilkinson was more concerned with saving Mexico than the United States. He enjoyed a pension of $2,000 a year (then some money) in consideration of his secret services—a pension he was paid for 20 years. Wilkinson was general-in-chief of the United States Army while he was serving an alien master.

The astonishing fact is that a former vice president of the United States, a candidate for the presidency, almost elected, joined by one who in time actually became president, together with generals, businessmen, bankers, politicians united to destroy their country and were willing to accept foreign subventions. And they faced a government asleep that would not wake up until it was almost too late. It was a God-given good fortune that saved this country from Burr's conspiracy—not anything else. For Burr worked almost in the open.

Who'll Monitor It—The FCC or The SEC?

The New York Stock Exchange is sponsoring a radio program.

Imagine a singing commercial setting forth the advantages of Anaconda common or Std G & E, $6 prpf.

What sort of program is it . . . a sort of Speculators Hit Parade, featuring the day's ten top gainers? That could be Wall Street's answer to Basin.

Or will it be a securities opera, a saga of the bucket shops, with a struggling young account executive pitting his cunning, ala Little Red Riding Hood, against the wolves and the bears?

Incidentally, speaking of animals, some may take it for a children's program, what with all those cats and dogs.

Immediately following the Stock Exchange hour will be an ideal spot for a finance company announcement, one of those where the solemn-voiced announcer solicitously inquires: "Friends . . . Do you need margin?"

What Made Prices Soar?

Grocery Manufacturers Tell Their Story.

NO. 1 dirge on the national complaint parade is the high cost of everything, chiefly food. Everybody wants to know what made prices go up so high. What happened to the law of supply and demand that was supposed to go into effect when OPA restrictions were removed?

Among those trying to answer such questions these days are dealers in foodstuffs. They fear the consequences of the ill will that may grow out of misunderstanding. The Grocery Manufacturers of America recently issued a bulletin reviewing the reasons behind rising prices. These are the high points:

1. With employment at an all-time peak, and with exports simultaneously taking surplus food out of the country at a record rate, supply simply cannot meet demand. Competitive bidding for available food is causing prices to be high and will cause them to go higher. Supply and demand have gone into effect with a vengeance.

2. Costs at every step of the complex process of getting food from producers to consumers have risen. Farmers last year received 200 per cent more for their food than they received from 1935 to 1939. Equipment, insurance, transportation, storage and wages have gone up enormously—all at the food consumers' expense.

3. The federal government concealed part of the rising cost of food during the war by paying direct subsidies to producers ranging from a few cents on each quart of milk to as much as 13 cents on a pound of butter. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1946 the government paid a billion and a-half dollars in food subsidies. These have been discontinued. They have been more than made up, however, by increases in prices.

4. Federal taxes are at an all-time high. Food prices would be easier to bear, for instance, if consumers were not paying so much of their income to the government for taxes.

The Grocery Manufacturers deny that profits are responsible for rising prices of food. On the contrary, if all profits were eliminated, the effect on prices would be negligible. As it is, the food manufacturer, according to the Grocery Manufacturers, will make no more than 3.5 cents on dollar sales this year, about a cent less than the average in 1939.

"It is clear," the organization concludes," that no one segment of our economy can be blamed for the present food price."

From Fort To a Town

MAYOR ROY STEPHENSON says his Fort Des Moines town has almost no crime and its 3,000 residents — all veterans and their families—are as staid and sober a lot as you will find anywhere.

This old fort, first home of the Women's Army Corps, now is a self-governed town with city council, police and fire departments, grade school, park and playgrounds, golf course, swimming pool, community center, churches, shops and theater.

"This town is composed entirely of veterans raising families," Stephenson said. "Such people are grateful for a place to live while trying to regain the productive time they lost in service. It isn't the sort of place that attracts the criminal element."

On the surface Fort Des Moines looks much as it did during the five years it served as the principal training center for the WAC. But instead of khaki-clad WAC's, the streets now are full of youngsters—most of them under five years old -- housewives lugging groceries and fathers wheeling baby carriages.

At first the government had planned to make Fort Des Moines a national cemetery. But homeless veterans appealed to John MacVicar, mayor of Des Moines, who carried the battle to the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce and the Federal Housing Agency. Des Moines businessmen formed the Des Moines Housing Corp., a non-profit organization.

The first year veterans constructed partitions for the apartments in the old frame barracks. Then the Federal Housing Authority finished up the remodeling job.

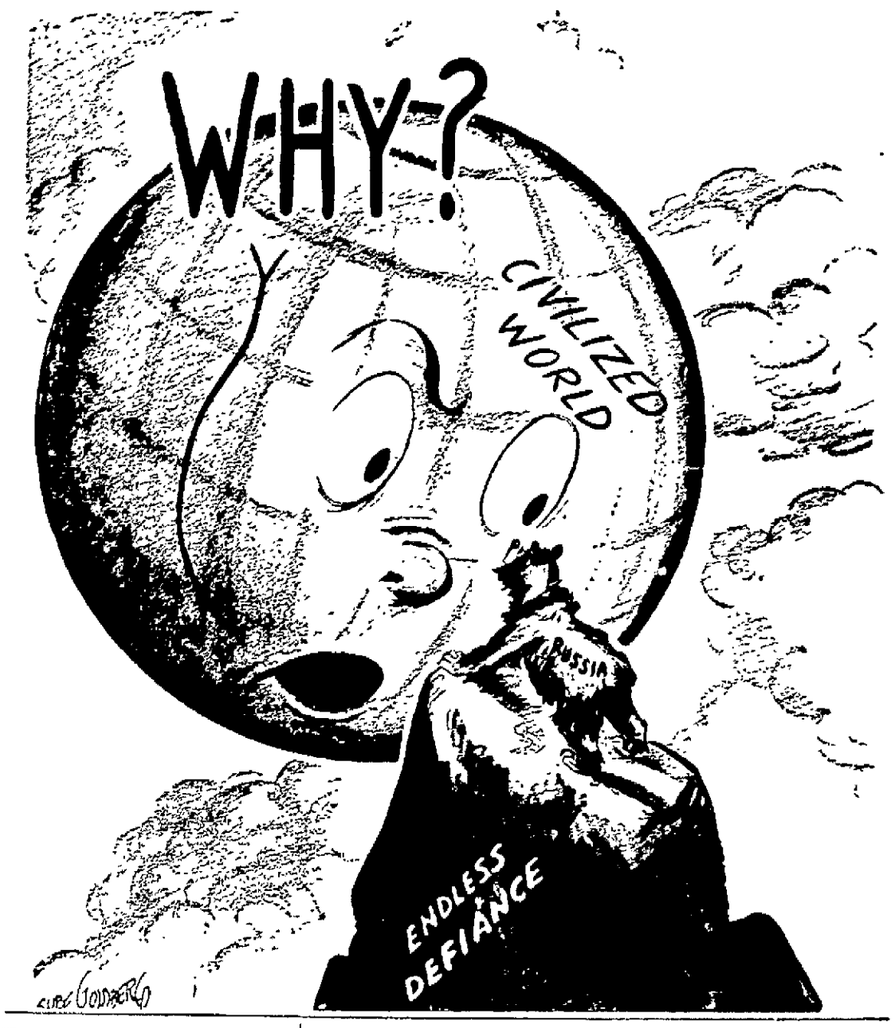
The Eternal Question



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Nov. 28, 1937.

A family of five was injured when a "baby" tornado struck their home near Galion, tearing off the roof and causing the structure to cave in. The injured were Lloyd Harrison, father of the family, his wife and their children, David, 15, Johnny 12, and a smaller son.

A dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Gruber of the Claridon road, celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary and the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Gruber and Werner Flach of Green Camp whose wife was a cousin of Mrs. Gruber.

Carl Campbell was reelected superintendent of the Emanuel Lutheran church Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Welch of North Main street entertained with a dinner in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Dora Fields, 71, a resident of Claridon for 60 years, died at her home there.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brewer of the Upper Sandusky road entertained with a dinner honoring the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. Brewer's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Brewer of Baker street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Nov. 28, 1927.

Dr. Arthur Compton, seventh American to win the Nobel prize was honored at a public reception at Wooster. He was a native of Wooster and a graduate of Wooster college in 1913. With his brother, Dr. Wilson Compton he was to sail the following Wednesday for Stockholm where the $20,000 prize was to be awarded.

Edward Knapp, Marion O. Chenoweth and Edwin Schoenlaub, Ohio State university students, were weekend guests of friends here.

Window panes were blown in, limbs of trees torn down and signs rocked dangerously when a heavy windstorm struck Marion.

Original stories, "A Thanksgiving Story" by Mrs. Harland LeMasters and "A Club's Thanksgiving" by Mrs C. H. Rinehart, were presented at a meeting of the Sesame club at the home of Mrs. LeMasters on Pearl street.

Ralph Bender, Waldo township youth who had achieved unusual distinction when a steer which he had entered in the Cleveland Livestock Show was awarded first prize, was elected captain of the basketball team of the Waldo High school. He played forward on the team and was rated one of Marion county's star performers in the cage game.

British On Their Way

Coal Called Key to Postwar Comeback.

THE "other side" of the British mining problem is presented in an article by Philippa Day, writing for British Information Service. Admitting that British coal is the key to recovery not only in Britain but in Europe—a fact pointed out by many foreign observers—the writer declares British miners and mine managers are making giant strides toward all-time production records.

"The plan of the government," the article says, "is to export 6,000,000 tons of coal next year to the continent and so speed the recovery of the rest of war-torn Europe. Coal will be a principal part of Britain's big contributions to the self-help plan of Europe under the Marshall Plan."

Difficulties that have caused coal production to fall behind schedules so far under the nationalization program can all be blamed, the article says, on shortage of skilled miners resulting from the war, bottlenecks in the changeover to mechanization and "past errors." Up until 1938, it is pointed out, coal belonged to whoever owned the land above it, in that year coal royalties were nationalized. The result of the private ownership system was hundreds of small mines operating inefficiently. Nationalization, it is asserted, is making it possible to combine many of these small operations. "The British, who were world pioneers in applying electricity to coal-hewing and also in designing coal-cutters and underground conveyors, are now turning out an increasing stream of cutter-loaders which by the end of 1951, it is estimated, will help to produce about an extra 50,000,000 tons of coal a year. The men in the pits have begun to work voluntary overtime shifts and have agreed to forego their newly won five-day week if necessary."

The article says 72 per cent of British coal output is cut by machinery. 71 per cent is conveyed mechanically from the coal face, and 67 per cent by other conveyors to loading points. Coal-cutting machinery, it is explained now is being made faster than it can be absorbed, because of a bottleneck in haulage methods.

"After six years of war in which she lost a quarter of her national wealth," the article says in conclusion, "Britain is gradually building up her strength again."

Rainmaking Activities

NO OTHER scientific tentacle into the unknown regions of our relations with nature has ever been taken up with such enthusiastic abandon as the method of triggering clouds by dusting them with dry ice. ("Weather Control," S & A, February, 1947.) It appealed to the imagination and the planes and the adventurous pilots were available.

Close on the announcement that General Electric experimenters had made a cold cloud turn into snow—which might melt or even evaporate before it reached the ground—reports of rainmaking came from Australia. Then they came from all parts of the United States. Newspapers all summer long carried the accounts, and, though some of the attempts were failures, many of them, apparently, were successful. There was even a shortage of dry ice; the industry was not prepared for such an expansion of its business.

Another shortage, of course, was that of clouds. No amount of flying and spraying dry ice into the atmosphere is effective unless there is a suitable thunderhead to work on. Nature imposes definite limitations. Nevertheless, if clouds that would otherwise get away can be made to produce rain the local benefits will be valuable, and selecting the places where snow will fall can save traffic tieups in cities and perhaps conserve moisture where it is needed.

Snow on the range, unfortunately, is not all available to feed streams during summer. Much of it evaporates. Trying to do something about that loss, a Canadian has suggested dusting the snowpack with carbon black so that the sun's radiation—even in winter—will melt and pack the crystals and prevent evaporation. Unfortunately, it seems probable that the expense of treatment would exceed the savings. O. S. U. Science and Appliance.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Our Hero for 1947

WE HAVE discovered the Man of The Year. Upon him we would confer the Distinguished Resentment Medal, with palms, and the Worm-Has-Turned Award for 1947. And we would toss in the Accolade for Meritorious Delayed Top-Blowing.

* * *

He is Mr Joe Ryan, a New Yorker, and he is our Hero of the Decade.

* * *

Mr. Ryan, according to the papers chased a chef with a 12 inch knife, after making a squawk about some lunchrooms food and getting the old "So what!" treatment.

* * *

He was arrested (Mr. Ryan, not the chef, obviously) We do not know the restaurant involved or the merits of this case in detail, but we submit that to millions of American lunchrooms and restaurant patrons, Ryan represents a knight in shining armor. (But with an inadequate weapon).

* * *

In him great armies of Americans fed up with bad cooking, sloppy service, and all around arrogance, which takes in the waiters, counter-help and even the proprietors, see a truly great champion. It is our conviction that 75 out of every 100 chefs and short order cooks operating in this country today are not even close to being good cooks. They are refuges from concrete mixers. At heart they are caterers to seagulls.

* * *

The cash customers have been taking it lying down. They have presented a disgusting picture of timidity, resignation and lack of spunk. But here is a man who when he made a slight kick about the grub and got the usual brush off turned Iroquois Indian and embarked on a scalping operation, more power to him!

* * *

What we can't understand about such heroes is their moderation. Why a knife? Why no bazooka, why, indeed, no atom bomb?

* * *

A knife is no good against the run of the mill 1917 chef, waiter and proprietor. The hide of the rhino is a gossamer by comparison.

* * *

We cheer Mr. Ryan as benefactor of mankind who recognizes the Number One threat to our civilization. We salute him as a long awaited leader in an all out war on bored, incompetent, arrogant slop-chute employes. He as a warrior in a greater threat than the one from Moscow.

* * *

The chef who took intense pride in his work worked hard at it, was deeply pained if he failed to please is hard to locate today even with radar and the FBI. If a customer rejects a blue plate today because he finds an old shoe in it, the rejoinder to a complaint will be a harsh "What did you expect, patent leather boots?"

* * *

More power to Joe Ryan. America needs more Ryans, with a switch, of course from 12 inch knives to harpoons.

* * *

What Do You Know?

By Truman Twill

Confidentially, a warm glow suffuses this correspondent when he thinks of the possibilities of popularizing warm winter underwear.

The glow goes all the way back to a time when warm winter underwear was compulsory. If any child had shown up at school then without the characteristic bulge at the shoetop where the floppy legs of his underwear were folded over he would have been sent home, sweet charity would have investigated his family's wherewithal and dispatched a basketful of warm winter underwear.

Everybody despised the stuff, despite the fact it was protective. But they despised it because it was awkward, unsightly and uncomfortable, features that since have been overcome to a large extent. But before they were overcome, the damage had been done. A generation of girls grew up firmly resolved never to fold another floppy leg of winter underwear. A generation of boys grew up resolved never to endure that and the itching. Thus was abandoned the protection that nature intended.

What if the winter underwear people would start an advertising campaign based on the idea that Yohantus Z. Flimflam has switched to Spung's All-Weather Warmies—Will You Be Next? They could use pictures of Yohantus living comfortably in snowbanks, sliding down icebergs on the seat of his pants, having a jolly time at football games, taking belly slammers on his trusty sled and having all kinds of cold-weather fun without so much as the chatter of a tooth or a goose pimple.

They could tell gullible goofs from coast to coast that Aloha U. Cheesecake, currently appearing at your local theater in "Girl Gushes," has been wearing Spratfield Fleecies ever since she was a Campfire Girl and wouldn't think of going past the 15th of November without checking over her supply of knee lengths. That would give goofs something to think about—Aloha in her three-quarter lengths.

There could be pictures of whole families lined up in their union suits, with every hatch battened down snug and firm, all armbands and anklebands snug and shapely. There could be testimonials from well-known lushes, ne-er-do-wells and drones, reassuring working people that nothing takes the place of Woonsocket Woolies when the going gets tough and a feller needs protection.

Bit by bit the geniuses of the advertising game could build up the notion that the whole darned world was changing to long underwear as fast as the underwear mills, running 24 hours a day, could turn out these indispensable guardians of national health and happiness. And once that happened, a fellow wouldn't need quite so much courage to walk into a store and announce that he was tired of being a Spartan boy with Jack Frost nibbling at his vitals, therefore get out the longies and no half-concealed grins, please, this is a serious matter—and would it be all right if a customer tried on a pair of that double-thickness model for, a, er, ah, size?

Coin Collectors

More than one billion dollars will be spent by American consumers this year for food and services without a word being said, an exchange being made or an insult being loosed.

To be specific, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated that automatic coin machines doing everything from selling insurance to shining shoes and broiling cheeseburgers will swallow that many nickels, dimes and quarters.

The institute says they take telegrams, rent razors, brew coffee, sell bubble gum and deliver the morning paper as well as change money, sell tooth-brushes and provide locker space in stations and terminals.

One machine has been selling railroad tickets and making change in a Philadelphia station without once making a customer miss his train.

What's more, there is no longer any need to kick, shake or bite machines to get service but all three exercises may be indulged in without hurting their feelings or frames.

And the machines are forbidden to accept tips.

Bang's Disease Cut by Vaccine

By The Associated Press

EAST LANSING, Mich.—A new vaccine for cattle developed by Dr. I. Forest Huddleson, Michigan State college bacteriologist, shows good promise of preventing the spread of Bang's disease in cattle herds, and thus lessening the danger of undulant fever in humans.

The brucella vaccine will be used in widescale tests on Michigan dairy herds. In experiments on private herds during the last two years, the vaccine limited the spread of the costly Bang's disease to four per cent of the susceptible animals.

Undulent fever in humans is spread by contact with infectious material from animals.

WATER DIVINER ON TRAIL OF URANIUM

By The Associated Press

ROSSLARE HARBOUR, Wexford, Eire—Joseph Henry Bennett, a County Longford farmer, with something of an international reputation as a water diviner, has branched out into divining uranium.

Without leaving Ireland, and working only with maps, Farmer Bennett says he has divined "miles of uranium" in a certain British possession, the name of which he would not divulge.

To understand Bennett's methods, you have to understand water divining, which is something like the Indian rope trick, inasmuch as those who have seen it know all about it, while those who have not seen it swear it is a fake and cannot be done.

The ordinary water diviner is remarkable enough. He walks across a field with a hazel wand in his hand, and the wand trembles and points downwards at the point where water lies beneath the soil

Farmer Bennett, however, does his water divining without leaving the house, and letters of thanks from India, Australia, New Zealand, the United States, South Africa, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France, indicate that his technique has some success.

Bennett, who is a partner in Kelly and Bennett, Water and Mineral Diviners recently gave an exhibition of his powers at the engineer's office of the Cork Bord of Health.

Holding a hazel rod over an ordinance map he traced the course of an underground stream at Currabinny, where he said the boring must be 160 feet deep At Monkstown he predicted a good supply, 40 yards wide and 80 feet deep

It was reported that unfortunately there was a house on the land at Monkstown, but the prediction of the Currabinny water is being placed before the local government authority and subject to their approval borings will be made.

As for the "miles of uranium" Bennett said he had already been visited by a representative of the British government in this connection, but they had not succeeded in coming to terms.

OBERAMMERGAU PLANS FOR 1950 PASSION PLAY

By The United Press

MUNICH—Except for 81 members of the cast who still are prisoners of war, the famous Passion Play of Oberammergau is almost ready for its 1950 performance, the burgermeister of the renowned Little Alpine town reports

Most of the principal players have been denazified, he said. Now the production must solve only two more big problems accommodations for the audience and food for the cast

Refugees are housed in Oberammergau hotels, he said The town plans to move them into new settlements, but they are yet to be built.

He explained that the players for 1950 will be elected by a special committee of townspeople Since players must begin to let their hair grow 18 months before the performance, the players presumably will be selected before next fall

The Garmisch denazification board, which handles Oberammergau's denazification cases, said it believes most of the players have been processed and only one has been sentenced to prison

He is technician Jakob Burger, sentenced to two years in a labor camp The others all were declared followers, and were fined but not jailed

Italy is about the size of New Mexico.

Mrs Winchell, who said her daughter was ill, told police the girl was last seen leaving her Fifth avenue hotel at 3 p. m. Wednesday She did not disclose the nature of Wanda's illness

In Hollywood, Winchell, declaring "this is a helluva Thanksgiving," said yesterday his daughter is "very, very ill, according to several doctors, and needs hospitalization and immediate treatment."

CAUSE OF CRASH FATAL TO 13 UNDETERMINED

By The Associated Press

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 28—The cause of a twin-engine air transport's crack-up and death of its 13 occupants remained unknown today, but an airman who followed the ill-fated ship into Yakutat two hours later expressed belief it resulted from some emergency other than weather.

"Weather conditions required a standard instrument approach to Yakutat, but there were no severe atmospheric conditions and we made a smooth landing," said Emmett Flood, Renton, Wash., co-pilot of a Northern Airlines plane

The DC-3 transport crashed early yesterday as it approached the Yakutat village airport for a scheduled landing All of the 13 persons aboard—11 passengers and two crewmen — perished in the wreckage which was reported "about two-thirds burned."

The plane was operated by the Columbia Air Cargo company of Portland, Ore

The temperature of Carsbad Caverns, New Mexico remains at a 56 degrees fahrenheit.

The old certainties fade. Right and wrong become as intermixed as a shuffled deck of cards, face down.

In lands of shortages the black market operator emerges as the kingpin of a new aristocracy. In Japan the widow of a high-minded judge who died of hunger rather than buy on the black market says, "it is horrible these days to be married to an honest man."

A dubious slogan emerges in America to salve the qualms of conscience: "Who's perfect?" The children work overtime to learn parental lessons in delinquency.

A two-star general admits he speculated in war bonds, and down in Tennessee a man drinks poison to test his biblical faith—and dies.

LOOKING OVER THIS moral wilderness, a cheerful optimist finds the old black-and-white gospel of good and evil still is being preached, however. But it reaches many people now only through the confession magazines, comic strips and the wrestling ring.

Cartoon characters lead a more high-minded existence than our neighbor down the street, and in the grunt-and groan industry we find the old struggle between bad and good raised to its highest contemporary dramatic level. In the wrestling ring the hero, after enduring innumerable foul blows, always comes out on top.

But it is a left-handed commentary on the present success of the devil that you have to pay $4.40 or more for a ringside seat to watch a villain take a hired fall.

IN REAL LIFE the issue is more complex. Daily it grows more difficult for men and nations to tell the good from the bad, to know the right from the wrong.

The world needs a new Billy Sunday to make it hit the sawdust trail, another Milton to teach the grandeur of the moral life, a fresh Saul of Tarsus to preach that virtue is its own reward—and worth it.

There is no way yet to do it with a radar screen.

$15 Stolen by Prowler From Child's Toy Register

Gerald Stephenson of 572 Olney avenue reported to city police early this morning that his house had been entered while he was away yesterday and that a child's toy cash register containing between $15 and $18 was missing.

Someone had broken the glass out of a side basement window and taken the $7 toy. He reported the theft at 2:20 a. m. today after returning home. He had left his house about noon yesterday.

BEAUTY — BOREDOM.. The beauty is, of course, Mrs. Leslie Codie, a war bride arriving at New York on her way to Washington, D. C., after a visit home to England. The boredom is evident in her little son, Terry Lee, who's anxious to get going back to his American father.

$40,000 FOR TREE STYMIES OFFICIALS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28—A $40,000 price tag had the city temporarily stymied today in its efforts to cut down an 80-foot elm tree described as an air traffic hazard.

The tree belongs to Karl Olsen, who set the price for it, six acres of land and his house after refusing to allow the city to chop it down and pay damages.

The city must have it removed before the civil aeronautics administration will permit use of a new "blind" landing system through which planes will be guided down at the municipal airport by radio beams.

CCC officials insist that a 50-foot area on either side of the glide path's center be clear of obstructions. The tree is in that area.

The property was valued at $25,900 in an appraisal made for the city, but Olsen said he was able to make $5,000 on the land by parking cars at the national air races and his $40,000 figure actually was too low.

"I planted that elm myself 43 years ago, when I was a kid on my father's farm," Olsen said. "If that tree is cut down so the planes can use the glide path we won't ever feel safe in our homes."

The city is planning to take the matter to court, but here were those who fell the tree would be the most expensive ever purchased here.

TAKES JUST ONE HELPING IN LONG-DELAYED DINNER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28—Smiling Mickey Schuster swallowed his first Thanksgiving day dinner in 26 years yesterday.

Mickey, for 26 of his 29 years, has eaten through a hole in his stomach.

Pittsburgh surgeons recently opened his esophagus—sealed shut since he swallowed lye accidentally at the age of three—by lifting his stomach and reattaching it.

But Mickey didn't take a second helping, even so.

"I took enough on the first helping to see me through," the Youngstown man grinned.

tiers captured their immediate attention in a dispute over the setting up of a commission to draft plans for Germany's final boundaries

The United States, Britain and France agreed at yesterday's meeting on the formation of a boundary commission, but Soviet Foreign Minister V. M Molotov balked, contending that the assignment of such a task was "premature" and that priority must be given to the formation of a unified central government.

Molotov reiterated the frequently voiced argument that the Potsdam agreement—by which Russia took over part of Poland and Poland part of Germany — was final that plans for the peace conference must be conditioned upon agreements reached at that meeting.

Secretary of State George C Marshall denied Molotov's contention and asserted the United States would support Poland's claim to compensation for her wartime losses but asserted that "we must avoid a decision which would deny hope to moderate forces within Germany

Agree on Central Government

The U S, Britain and Russia were in general agreement upon the necessity of forming a central government for all Germany, but its form and overall powers remained to be worked out.

There also was general agreement that some form of provisional German government should be given an opportunity to present its views when and if a German peace conference is convoked and that the pact itself should be submitted to such a government for ratification.

UNION FILES FOR GALION ELECTION

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 28—The Independent Workers Union of the North Electric Manufacturing Company filed a petition, Wednesday, with the National Labor Relations Board at Cleveland, asking for recognition and an election. The union claims a majority of hourly wage employes, excluding supervisors. The NLRB was contacted, Wednesday, by George Zaebst, temporary president of the union, and Attorney Edward Myers of Bucyrus, representing the union.

Zaebst said today that the union had filed the petition after it had received a telegram, Monday, from the Director of the Division of Labor Standards, Washington, D. C., stating that a letter of registration bearing the code number of the Independent Workers Union was being issued to the organization. This was necessary before the new union could apply for petition for recognition with the NLRB, a spokesman of the union said today.

Meanwhile the cross-check of the United Auto Workers (CIO) pledge cards with North Electric company payroll was discontinued, Tuesday night, because the company's observer, Rev. Norman R. Somerville, was unable to be present Wednesday. The cross-check has been postponed indefinitely, now, because the arbiter, Verner E. Wardlaw of Columbus, representing the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service, cannot be present next week.

When interviews in the cross-check ended Tuesday night, some 829 workers had been in from among about 500 to be interviewed. According to Edward J. Buck, international representative for the UAW-CIO, only 60 more interviews were needed before a majority can be determined.

The cross-check was a part of the agreement reached between the company and union Nov. 1 which ended a 74-day strike at the Galion plant.

The agreement also provided that the two parties would enter into negotiations for a contract if the union wins a majority on the cross-check. The negotiations, however, would cease, according to the agreement "if and when any group of employes of the company file any petition with the National Labor Relations Board claiming majority representation of any alleged appropriate unit."

2,000 Pairs of Shoes Given For Europe at Thanksgiving Service

Nearly 400 persons attended the union Thanksgiving service at First Presbyterian church Wednesday night sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial association. In response to the service theme of "Share Your Thanksgiving," and a call for shoes for overseas relief, approximately 2,000 pairs were given by those who attended the service and by others whose donations were received at their respective churches. An offering of about $150 was designated also for overseas relief. Original goal of the sponsoring group was 1,000 pairs of shoes from Marion.

Rev. James C. Flory, a field worker for World Church Service, relief organization just returned from a tour of Europe spoke on conditions of hunger and distress which he found there, and gave an insight into workings of relief organizations. Money given to relief is used to buy materials wholesale for shipment overseas and articles of clothing and other materials donated go to five different storehouses of the World Church Service organization to be distributed overseas through local charitable institutions.

Care is taken that these things do not get sold back market by translating them to ough the organization. Such data information on where they are most needed, foreign cooperation of countries, be carried out. In addition to the message, a motion picture on conditions in Europe, "The Road We Walk," was shown.

It was announced that shoes given will be boxed Saturday in the basement of First Presbyterian church for shipment to World Church Service center at Dayton, and these boxes will be forwarded to headquarters at New York City for shipment overseas.

PROBERS HIT MEYERS JACKPOT IN OHIO

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28—Senate investigating committee members came to Cleveland last August primarily on the trail of airplane manufacturer Howard Hughes, and "hit the jackpot" on Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, it was learned today.

A Cleveland official connected with the investigation said that search of the Cleveland Trust Co. records originally was to discover if there were any banking connections between Meyers and Hughes but that the uncovering of Meyers million-dollar loans was the "real" find of the investigation.

The official said Meyers came to Cleveland in September apparently with the hope of learning where the investigation was headed.

He added that Meyers met here with Richard M. Bourne, vice president of the bank, who introduced the general to President George Gund.

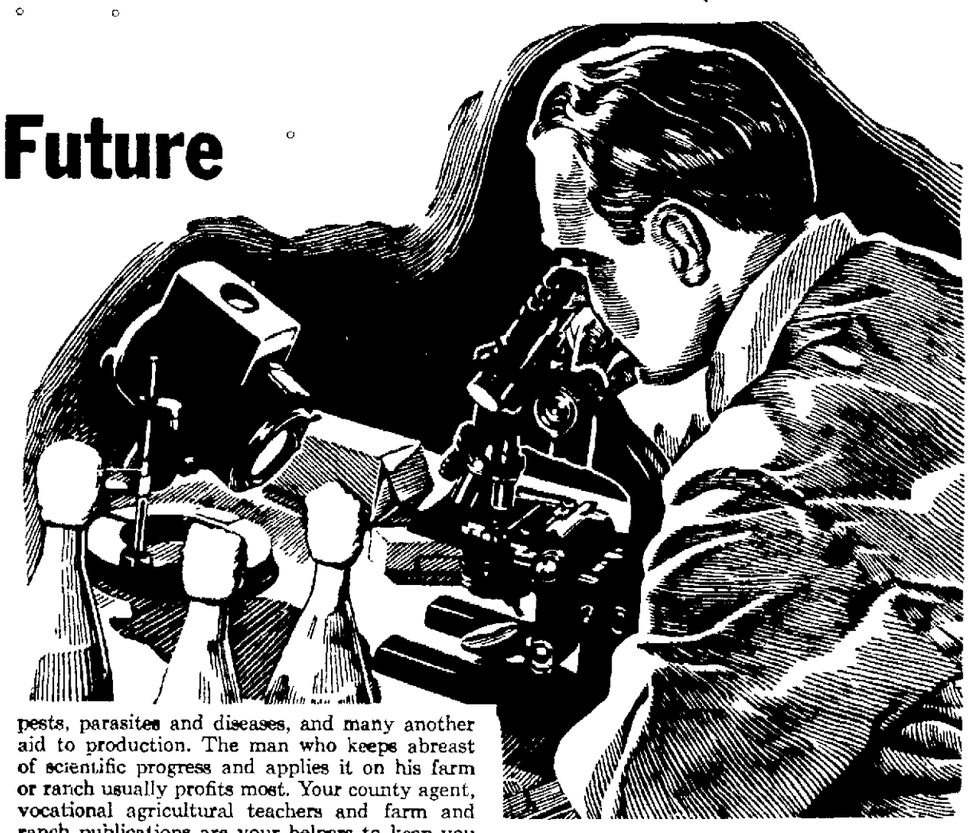
He's Looking into Your Future



The scientist in the agricultural laboratory is as truly a pioneer as our grandfathers who fought their way westward to the rich farmlands and the broad ranges of the west. He's looking into your future . . . seeing greater things! His findings, put to use by practical livestock men and farmers, are resulting in thriftier, faster-gaining cattle and lambs, grazing the Great Plains . . . higher yielding crops enriching the Corn Belt . . . new immunity from disease for your livestock. He is pioneering a better and more abundant life for you through new markets for your output, improved products for you to sell.

Miracles like hybrid corn seldom happen by chance. Into its development went more than 30 years of patient research. It cost federal and state governments about ten million dollars. Experiments on individual farms cost unknown amounts. But last year alone hybrid corn added more than $750,000,000 to farm income. Thanks to research, we now have such chemicals as DDT. Chemists searching for an insecticide to protect our armed forces from malarial mosquitoes found this potent bug killer. Already, DDT has made livestock producers many extra millions through increased production of meat and milk from fly-free herds. One ranch reports an extra ton of beef for every pound of DDT used. What a return on a half-dollar investment!

There are similar thrilling stories being written in every phase of agriculture. Many of the new developments come from colleges and experiment stations (largely financed by taxes paid by individuals and business) or from laboratories supported by private industry. From them you get improved varieties of crops, better control of pests, parasites and diseases, and many another aid to production. The man who keeps abreast of scientific progress and applies it on his farm or ranch usually profits most. Your county agent, vocational agricultural teachers and farm and ranch publications are your helpers to keep you abreast of latest research information.

Swift & Company, for many years, has engaged in extensive research on agricultural products. It enables us to develop new products, to improve existing ones, to produce better nourishment for your family, your livestock and your crops.

Soda Bill Sez: . . . little grains of sense can produce a big harvest of dollars.
. . . take a good look at America—and be thankful!

OUR CITY COUSIN

Old Tom heard City Cousin say—
"What a meal for our Thanksgiving day!"

From the Editor's Notebook

Since the days of the Pilgrim fathers, Thanksgiving has been a heart-warming day for American families. This year we, more than any other nation, have cause to be thankful for an abundant harvest. In helping to feed America, we are thankful that we can add our efforts to those of the hard working farm and ranch families who produce our food.

* * *

If you plan to visit the International Livestock Show in Chicago, November 29 to December 6, plan also to visit us at Swift & Company. Competent guides will gladly show you along the Visitor's Route through our plant. All of us in the Agricultural Research Department cordially invite you to drop in for a chat. We'll be looking for you!

* * *

Producers who attend the International Livestock Show, particularly those who come in from distant points, will quickly realize why the livestock meat industry needs nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company. Two-thirds of the nation's livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River, but two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of the Mississippi. This means that, on the average, there is a gap of more than 1,000 miles between major producing areas and major consuming centers. There has to be somebody to bring the producer and the consumer together. Helping to bridge that gap between the western range and the kitchen range efficiently and economically is one of the chief services performed by Swift.

Soft Corn Fattens Livestock
by I. B. Johnson
South Dakota State College

I. B. Johnson

Soft, moldy corn has been fed successfully and profitably in each of three years to fattening cattle, hogs and sheep at the South Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station. This corn gave the greatest returns when fed during the winter as compared with spring and summer feeding. The gains per bushel were reduced after the beginning of warmer weather in April. The soft ear corn had the following approximate values when compared with No. 3 ear corn in the rations fed during the winter months: 82% when fed to yearling steers, 78% when fed to yearling lambs, 76% when fed to hogs and feeder calves.

The soft, moldy corn was palatable to cattle and sheep. When soft and hard corn were offered in separate bunks to other cattle on feed in 1943, the soft corn was always the first to be consumed. The lambs fed soft ear corn usually cleaned their feed bunks more rapidly than those getting hard ear corn.

The soft corn was fed without any special preparation such as drying, salting, shelling, crushing or grinding. It was stored in uncovered piles on the ground and fed field run. When broken ear soft corn was fed to cattle and sheep, wastage was reduced. Shelled soft corn and ground soft ear corn were eaten readily, but were difficult to store as they heated and further molds developed.

Studies made on soft corn piled on the ground in eastern South Dakota indicate that it can be so stored only during the winter months. If the amount of soft corn is greater than that which can be fed before the beginning of warm weather, it should be stored in narrow cribs to allow it to dry out rapidly with the coming of spring. Another desirable practice is to make it into silage by running the soft ear corn through the ensilage cutter.

If you want additional information, write the Animal Husbandry Department, South Dakota State College, Brookings, South Dakota.

Track Down the Facts

Old Ringtail, the racoon, holes up in hollow trees. He's hard to track down without trained 'coon dogs . . . similarly, there are some hard-to-locate facts about any business. But no one needs any special "fact hunting" ability to get all the facts about what determines livestock prices.

A recent top price for beef steers on a midwest market was $35, with an average of near $30, best lambs, $23.50 average $23, and hogs were selling up to $30, with a $27 average. These prices for livestock are unusual but, in general, they are due to the demand for meats being greater than the supply. They reflect what the consumer is willing and able to pay for meats. All farmers and ranchers should remember these basic facts, whether prices are high or low. The price producers receive for their livestock is governed by what the packer can get for the meat and the by-products.

I nodded, went on through the bedroom door, paused for two seconds, then returned to the telephone.

"Mary is up, and says to come up right away. She's most anxious to see you."

"Does—does—she know—about—us?" I noticed with approval that she did not speak Georges' name over the telephone.

"Yes," I answered, "she knows in a general way what is planned. But she does not know your special plans."

I wanted a salute to my ancient sister, Sapphira, as I spoke, and Mary waved a mocking hand at me.

"Oh, I am so glad," Olina said, with joyous relief in her voice. "Then I can tell her all about everything myself."

"We'll lock both of you into Mary's bedroom," I told her laughing. "Then you'll be safe from all eavesdroppers, especially my small daughter. Don't let her hear a single dropped word. She is especially keen, and on her toes this morning, but all she knows is that I have to be away tomorrow night. Mary will tell you her astonishing comments when you come up. They really are worth hearing."

"Anything Faith says is always worth hearing," Olina declared extravagantly. "And I'll be right up."

"The 'welcome sign' will be out," I told her. "Good-bye."

"Good-bye," she said. And I turned back to Mary.

"Shes coming right away," I said.

"I suppose that means I'm to get into my own little place," she said plaintively.

"You heard me the first time, when I was talking to Olina," I said, and with a little moue at me, she rose with an appearance of great languor, and walked lazily toward the bedroom.

"Shut the door after you," I called, and she giggled.

"There's a six letter word you teach Faith," she said.

"P L E A S E," I spelled the word out. "Now get along with you."

"And the back of your hand, and Cromwell's curse, and a few other choice maledictions," she said. "All right, all right. I'm gone."

She closed the door, and it was less than a minute later that I opened the door to Olina's knock. She was joyous and animated, but I saw the lurking shadow in her eyes, and knew that it never would be exercised until she saw Georges and Mary near each other at her wedding ceremony.

Katharine had slipped away to her own room at Mary's exit, so I was alone in the sitting room when I welcomed Olina.

"Mary is in the bedroom," she asked when she came in.

"Yes she is anxiously awaiting you," I said.

"And you are sure she doesn't know that I want her to be my matron of honor, and Noel for best man?" she queried.

I might as well be "hung for a sheep as a lamb," I told myself as I answered her.

"Absolutely sure," I said.

"Then, please let me hurry in to see her," she said.

Ohio's Highest Point Is Offered to State

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28 — The highest point in Ohio, just east of Bellefontaine, was offered for lease to the state today for $1 a year.

The five-year lease covers the 100-acre tract around "August Wagner hill," and was formally presented to the state conservation commission.

The lease is offered by the estate of the late August Wagner, prominent Columbus brewer. Attorney Max H. Gumble said that Helen Wagner, daughter of the brewer, will give the site to the state when she becomes of age in 1950.

ILLINOIS MAY HAVE TAFT, DEWEY RACE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio may collide head-on in the April 15 Illinois primary in their contest for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination.

While neither has given any indication of his plans, friends of Taft said today he is almost certain to enter the Illinois lists if Dewey decides to try openly for the state's 56 convention delegates.

Taft is an announced candidate, but Dewey hasn't said publicly he is running again for the nomination he won in 1944.

Politicians generally have looked on the Illinois Republican situation as unsettled because of reported opposition within party ranks there to Gov. Dwight Green as a "favorite son" candidate.

Under Illinois law, the name of any candidate may be entered in a preferential primary with or without his consent. The results are merely "advisory" to the state's delegation but prestige is involved.

Dewey's friends have given notice his name will be entered in the March 9 New Hampshire primary, where former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, an announced candidate, already has pitched his hat.

Dewey forces also are reported to be marshalling for a battle with Stassen, and probably Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Wisconsin primary April 6. But whether the New York governor will be projected into the Illinois contest a week later apparently depends largely on what arrangements Green can make toward getting a favorite son pledge.

Taft previously had said he didn't intend to enter any primary except in Ohio, May 4, where he is virtually conceded solid support of the state's 53 delegates.

Close associates said, however, if the Illinois situation develops to the point where Dewey is entered, Taft will plunge into the race, too.

Coss Makes 3rd Team, 3 Prexies Get Mention in AP All Ohio Team

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Eleven seniors romped into football's hall of fame today as they outstripped some 15,000 others in the race for positions on the 1947 Associated Press All-Ohio High school team.

Picked from ballots cast by hundreds of coaches, about 100 officials and 85 sports editors, the first team is a coach's dream powerhouse filled with offensive finesse and unyielding defensive strength.

Coach Harry Strobel's mighty Magics from Barberton, the state's No 1 team, placed two stars on the first team in tackle Bob Toneff, a 225-pounder, and halfback Richard Goudy, but no other school was able to match that pace Goudy, although outscored by his running mate, Paul Condor, won the coveted spot on the basis of his all-around play.

FOUR PREXIES MAKE IT

Four Harding Prexies made positions on the All-Ohio teams' Jim Coss was named on the third team backfield, and Bob Ralston, Bob Short, and Clarence Smith received honorable mention.

Unbeaten Elyria's one-man gang, Vic Janowicz, wheeled into a halfback berth for the second straight year, and was a runaway choice as the outstanding player in the state, a fitting reward for the 17-year-old kid who excels at blocking, tackling, passing, place-kicking and running

Oddly enough, halfbacks Jim Bailey of Hamilton and Babe Calhoun of Middletown, who wound up as second team running mates, finished in the second and third spots respectively, in the "outstanding player" race on which separate ballots were taken.

Jack Wagner, undefeated Piqua's left-footed kicker and left-handed passer, was an odds-on choice for fullback—and he's headed for Ohio State. Janowicz is wavering between Michigan, Notre Dame and Ohio State in that order, while the rest of the all-senior first team haven't decided where to attend college

Jack Tarush unbeaten Columbus West's fine end who punts place-kicks, passes and runs on end-arounds, was the No. 1 choice for a wing position, with Bob Gehrisch, Crestline's outstanding pass-catcher, getting the job on the other side

200-pounder who averaged 44 yards on punts, won the tackle berth opposite Toneff on the basis of his great defensive play and his stabilizing influence on the youthful Tyger team.

The first team guards finished far ahead of the field as Thor Ronemus of Springfield's giant-killer club and Eddie Forkner of Middletown took over the positions, while Jonn Thomas of Portsmouth won the center job in a close scrap with John Sprowl, pivot man on the scrappy Springfield Catholic team.

Quarterbacking the first eleven is a master of the "T" and single wing—Dick Arledge of Chillicothe, who captained his team, threw touchdown passes all over the lot, booted 11 of 12 extra points, and blocked and tackled like a demon. Chillicothe won only five of nine, but all four coaches whose teams whipped the Ross countians were among those who pointed the 'he's the best quarterback' finger at Arledge

Angels Blank 740 A.C.'s, 20-0 In Annual Thanksgiving Game

Marion Safety Cab - Angels capped their 1947 football adventures with a 20-0 victory over Columbus 740 A.C.'s on Harding stadium's soggy turf yesterday afternoon

Approximately 500 fans spent Thanksgiving afternoon at the game. It was Marion's game throughout, but the spunky Columbus Negro aggregation fought well in trying to avoid their only loss of the season.

Receiving the kickoff, Marion got nowhere and Ivey punted from the Marion 38 to Johnson who weaved from the 35 to the 31 on the next series of plays and this proved to be their deepest penetration.

As the quarter waned the locals put an erratic drive in motion from their own 28 and each exchange of punts and downs saw the Angels moving closer to the Columbus goal line

A Marion drive to the six-inch line was stopped, but a few minutes later a touchdown drive from the Columbus 21 clicked, Roseberry passed to Ivey on the seven and six inches from paydirt Ivey was downed. On the next play Ivey slashed off tackle making it with yards to spare.

Captain Martin Lewis took a short, behind-the-line-pass from ball holder Ed Simmons and scooted over for the point. An attempted placement by Lewis had been short, but this attempt was nullified by a penalty against Columbus.

In the fourth quarter, after the spectators were treated to a 62 yard gain on a pass from Belknap to Richardson in the third quarter that again put the ball deep in invader's territory, the locals clicked on a sleeper play—Simmons to Roseberry—good for 25 yards and a score. A pass from Belknap to Reams was good for 15 yards and the final tally. Whaley converted after the second touchdown and failed to after the final.

Richardson had, on the 62 yard run, lateraled to Gilmore after being tackled but the officials ruled the play stopped on the 12. Marion also crossed the double stripe in the second quarter, when Simmons passed from the Columbus 38 to Ivey who took it in the vicinity of the 30 and dashed into the end zone. A clipping penalty clipped that score.

The Marion attack was a well balanced mixture of aerials and ground thrusts with Max Roseberry and Bob Ivey providing Marion most of their ground power and Roseberry, Leo Belknap, and Ed Simmons tossing the passes. Roseberry was converted from end to full back two weeks ago and after the game he was classified by Columbus players as the most powerful runner they've played against all season.

The complete Marion squad got into the game and the Angels' final record for the season is six and four

No Turkey for Steubenville— They Ate Giant Thanksgiving

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Practically everyone had turkey for Thanksgiving day except the football players of little Steubenville college. They dined on a giant, previously unbeaten St. Francis college of Loretto, Pa., 13-6, in the day's biggest surprise.

It gave Steubenville a fourth win in nine starts and boosted it a place or two in the final Ohio collegiate standings

Thanksgiving day contests—six in number—lifted the 1947 football season for Ohio colleges to the shelf. Only Wilberforce State has any competition left—a try at the Vulcan Bowl championship.

Wilberforce State, too, climbed a spot yesterday, snowing Bergen Junior college at New York's Polo grounds, 40-12, before 16,000 fans. This sent the Wilberforce team one of those statistical hairs ahead of Findlay in third place.

Yesterday's games had no effect on the championship of unbeaten, untied Denison university, which had completed its schedule.

The Steubenville win over St. Francis wasn't the only surprise of the day, for Miami university mauled the University of Cincinnati, 38-7. The surprise came in the size of the score, for Miami, only once-tied, was figured a modest edge over twice-beaten Cincinnati.

An alert Miami eleven shoved the Bearcats aside before 31,000 chilled fans at Cincinnati, with the accurate passing of quarterback Mel Olix providing the edge The out-weighed Miami line outcharged Cincinnati all afternoon

Western Reserve sneaked over a 17-12 victory on Case in a traditional Thanksgiving day battle, but it was a conversion placement which turned the trick. Case hasn't whipped Western Reserve since 1927.

Here are the final standings of Ohio elevens.

BROWNS EVEN SCORE WITH LOS ANGELES

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 — The Cleveland Browns, kingpins of the All-American conference, have finally evened the score with the Los Angeles Dons, their most persistent nemesis

The highly trained and talented Browns bowled over the Dons, 27-17 yesterday to avenge their lone 1947 defeat, 13 to 10, by the Los Angeles club two months ago. It squared the Dons-Browns series at two games apiece over a two-year span As usual, the Browns found the Dons no easy touch. Los Angeles piled up a first down edge of 19-9 and had a yardage bulge of 492 to 366, running and passing.

Otto Graham's passing and the alertness of his teammates made the difference. Graham connected on scoring plays of 19 and 15 yards to Mickey Mayne and Tom Colella, and also pitched into position for Marion Motley's 42 yard touchdown run

The Browns' fourth score came when end Mac Speedie intercepted a Don lateral and raced 10 yards

The Dons opened the scoring on Ben Agajanian's 43 yard field goal and followed with Harry Clarke's eight yard line smash to take a 10-0 lead before the Browns turned on the pressure. Los Angeles' other touchdown came on a Glenn Dobbs-Chuck Fenenbock pass covering 35 yards Graham completed 13 of 23 pitches for 240 yards; Dobbs, 13 of 21 for 176. John Kimbrough bulled to 87 yards on the ground for the Dons; Motley made 75 for the Clevelands.

WHO WON THIS ONE?

By The Associated Press

ARDMORE, Okla., Nov. 28—It was a mighty close football game here yesterday when Negro prep schools from Oklahoma City and Ardmore battled for the state Negro championship. The game: Douglass vs. Douglass. The score: 7-7.

Last year the Buffalo Bills returned five fumbles for a record 228 yards and a record four touchdowns.

DiMag Chosen Most Valuable Player in American League

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—Joe DiMaggio, star centerfielder of the world champion New York Yankees, today joined Jimmy Foxx, great slugger of the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox as the only three-time winners when he was named the most valuable player of the American league for 1947.

In the closest race in the history of the award, DiMaggio compiled a total of 202 points in the vote of the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America to nose out Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox by one point

Williams, who gained the runner-up spot by leading the league in batting (.343), runs batted in (114) and home runs (32) as well as in runs scored, total bases and bases on balls, polled 201 votes It was the second time he finished second to DiMaggio.

The Red Sox slugging outfielder, who won the award hands down last year with 224 votes, finished second to DiMag in 1941. DiMag also won in 1939. Foxx gained the honor in 1932 and '33 with the Athletics and in 1938 with the Red Sox.

The balloting for third place also was decided by one point with Lou Boudreau, shortstop-manager of the Cleveland Indians beating out Joe Page, the Yankees great lefthanded relief pitcher 168 votes to 167. George Kell, outstanding Detroit third baseman, was fifth with 132 points and George McQuinn, the Yankees' bargain basement first baseman, was sixth with 77 points

Joe Gordon, acquired by the Indians in a winter deal with the Yankees for pitcher Allie Reynolds, beat out Bob Feller, his famous pitching teammate, by one point for seventh place 59 points to 58 Phil Marchildon.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—Friday's Forecasts the Army football team will dispose of the Navy handily, though by no big margin, at Philly tomorrow . . . A Rip-snorting finish like last year's just can't happen again and this observer figures the Cadets have more strength through the middle than Navy's vaunted line . . . next week's Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott fight will be a sellout (proving that it takes more than a few black eyes to hurt the boxing business) and that Louis will apply the crusher in four rounds or less . . . The first part is a cinch—Publicitor Harry Markson already is moaning about the unprecedented demand for press tickets and assistant Francis Albertanti is wondering now to get a ticket for his wife . . . And a quick look at each heavyweight indicates that Jersey Joe is in excellent physical condition but can't fight in the same league with the champ

THE BEST LAUGH of the football season, according to the Green Bay Packers, came when a carnival Indian tribe visited their home town and hooked up with a local department store in a promotion stunt. One of those honored by being made members of the tribe was Jack Jacobs, the Packer halfback . . . He was given a nifty certificate saying that in recognition of his services to the city "this paleface" had been chosen Jacobs, an Oklahoman, is three quarters Indian

He proved it by not cracking a smile when the award was made

DI MAGGIO

Canadian righthander of the Athletics who won 19 games for a second division club, landed ninth position with 47 points, four more than Luke Appling shortstop of the Chicago White Sox got for the tenth spot.

DiMaggio celebrated his thirty-third birthday only last Saturday by leaving Johns Hopkins hospital following a successful operation for an elbow ailment.

Cold figures are misleading in the case of DiMaggio. While the figures show he batted only .315, 28 points behind Williams figure, and drove in 3 runs on 20 home runs, he was far more valuable than that

The Yankee Clipper, unable to get into the lineup at the start of the season due to a slowly healing foot after an operation, decided to play despite the handicap when the Yankees got off to a slow start. His big bat and his outstanding work in centerfield immediately sparked the team to a succession of victories that eventually brought the pennant to New York

It was not until after the termination of the regular season and the World Series, which he helped win that it was disclosed that the Yankee slugger had been suffering from an ailing arm which pained him terribly whenever he was forced to make a hurried throw in an effort to head off a runner

SPORTS LAUGHS

AP Newsfeatures

New York Giant players during the reign of the late John McGraw were in constant awe of the great manager. One of the most awesome characteristics of McGraw was his vast store of trivial facts

Once Virgil Barnes sneaked out for an evening of revelry during a Giant western swing. Making his way back to the hotel, Barnes fell over a fence and sprained his ankle

Later in the morning he telephoned McGraw and told the manager he would be unable to appear at the ball park because he had injured an ankle.

"How?" asked McGraw

Answered Barnes, "I slipped on the soap in the shower."

"You're a liar," shouted McGraw

Barnes replied, with proper indignation, "Now, Mr. McGraw, you can't call me names like that."

"You're a liar," repeated McGraw. "You're in room 247 and there isn't any shower in that room. Fifty dollars."

100,000 EXPECTED FOR ARMY-NAVY TILT

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28—The football forces of Army and Navy reach the end of their 1947 campaigns in Philadelphia's Pure municipal stadium tomorrow with the outcome as difficult to predict as in the days before "B. D. and T." exploded for touchdowns.

The Army, although its unbeaten string of victories was halted at 32 by Columbia will enter the fray with a much better season's record. But the Cadets lack scoring punch that carried them to victory the last three years when Doc Blanchard, Glenn Davis and Arnold Tucker—the "B. D. and T."—roamed the gridiron for the Black Knights from the West Point

While the Middies have only a lone tie and loss over Cornell and a tie with Duke to show for eight games they are confident of scoring their first victory since 1943 over Earl Blaik's gold clad warriors who have won four lost two (Columbia and Notre Dame) and tied Illinois and Pennsylvania.

"The men have a great will to win and I think they have a great chance to do so," said Head Coach Tom Hamilton of the Middies.

In the neighborhood of 100,000 persons, including President Truman and men high in the political and military life of the nation will ring the gridiron for the game scheduled to get underway at 1:30 p. m., eastern standard time.

Report St. Louis Browns Asked $100,000 Loan Before Trading

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 28—The St. Louis Browns told other American league clubs that they were in financial difficulty before the big player bargain sale began, but were turned down in their request for a $100,000 league loan. The United Press learned today.

During the five-day selling period, the Browns lost seven players, and received a return of $415,000 in cash and 11 players of uncertain quality.

The story of the sale actually began nearly two weeks before the first deal was announced. Owner Richard Muckerman applied to the league for the loan of approximately $100,000 to meet training expenses, payable immediately. Under the rules such loans must be approved by club owners.

This approval was not granted and shortly thereafter, the Browns began selling.

Had the owners approved the loan, it is unlikely that some of the trades would have occurred. There was a precedent for a league loan, for within the past five years the Browns have borrowed money from the league. Previously two or three other teams received financial help.

Presumably all of the loans were approved by the owners and all were repaid promptly.

The recent trades were completed over the protests of American league owners, and the last trade, Johnny Berardino to Washington for Gerry Priddy and $25,000 still has not been approved by Baseball Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler. Chandler acting on request of the Senators after Berardino announced he would accept a movie offer instead of reporting to Washington, announced an investigation instead of approval.

Dan Topping of the New York Yankees was the leader of the protest section. He charged that the Browns were reducing the circuit to a "seven team league".

Muckerman and General Manager Bill DeWitt of the Browns defended the sales and said they were eliminating players affected with "defeatism." In addition they said, any change would be an improvement over an eighth place team which could not finish lower.

The most profitable deal for the Browns was the trade which sent Shortstop Vern Stephens and Pitcher Jack Kramer to Boston. The Browns received $300,000 in cash and five second-grade players. Boston dipped into the till again for $65,000 for pitcher Ellis Kinder and infielder Billy Hitchcock while Cleveland paid $25,000 for pitcher Bob Muncrief and first baseman Walt Judnich.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Gold Leaf

Q: I have gold leafing covered with casein paint, some with flat paint Other places have a new-type cold water paint on them How could I remove these types of paint without harm to the gold leafing? What would you advise for restoring the original gold leafing and for its preservation after removal of the present paint?

A. If the gold leaf is the real thing not merely gilt paint you should have the cleaning done by a professional restorer Real gold leaf is extremely delicate and any attempts to remove the paint now so long might prove disastrous If the gilding is only paint, it should be simple enough to take all the finish off with paint remover, to be followed by thorough washing off with benzine or turpentine (Careful of fire!) After smoothing the surfaces with finest sandpaper the articles could be repainted with gold paint. A gold leaf job cannot be done by an amateur

Electric Units in Winter

Q Will it harm an electric stove and electric refrigerator to be in an unheated house all winter without being used?

A To keep the units in good condition, they should be shut off by a serviceman from the company, or a man recommended by your utility company All exposed metals likely to rust should be coated with petroleum jelly

Very Old Brick House

Q. We recently have acquired a brick house almost 200 years old Moisture penetrates the rather porous, foot-thick brick and the inch-thick plaster walls The resultant condition is unsightly as well as unhealthy Thus far the ready-prepared cement coatings that we have used have not cured the trouble Could you advise us how to correct the condition without changing the color of the brick?

A: The outside brick could have a coat of transparent water-proofer, which would not change the color of the old brick As the plasterwork was evidently applied directly on the masonry walls, this would account for the condensation on the inside walls There should be an air space between the masonry and the plasterwork This can be provided for by furring strips to form a support for new plasterwork, or else for a wallboard If wallboard is selected, see that you obtain the manufacturer's instructions for the correct way of putting it up, with special attention to closing the joints between the sheets The transparent waterproof coating will not last indefinitely, and should be renewed in a few years

Laying Linoleum

Q. Our kitchen is 12x12, with an oak floor, which has the finish worn off in the much-used places, but no cracks I am considering covering it with linoleum, rather than sanding and refinishing it. What would be the best procedure in this case?

A: It would require a booklet to give all the details of correct linoleum laying The large linoleum manufacturers have printed such booklets, and you might be able to get one But the work calls for skill and experience as well as quite a bit of equipment that is, if you are planning to do a cementing job If the problem were mine I would get a linoleum layer to do the work If you cannot get anyone and can manage to lay hold of the right equipment, you may be able to do a fair job yourself But you would have an easier time if you decide to refinish the floor as it was before.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—Stocks followed a narrow and irregular course in a quiet market today.

The ticker tape slowed appreciably after early activity to clear orders accumulated over the Thanksgiving recess.

Commission houses said considerable caution stemmed from uncertainty over congressional anti-inflation moves and prospects for improvement in international relations.

Dipping into lower ground at times were Bethlehem, General Motors, American Can (at a new 1947 low), Air Reduction, DuPont, Montgomery Ward, Electric Power & Light, Southern Pacific, Anaconda Copper and North American. Resistant were Richfield Oil (aided by an extra dividend), American Smelting, U.S. Rubber, J. C. Penney, Santa Fe, Westinghouse Electric and Youngstown Sheet.

Vassar College Honor Graduate Found Slain

By The Associated Press

WAYLAND, Mass., Nov. 28—The nude and frozen body of a brilliant 22-year-old graduate student at Radcliffe college was found in a lonely wooded glen here last night with a rifle shot through the head.

Associated Medical Examiner J. Harry McCann said the young woman, Frances C. Flint, an honor graduate of Vassar college, apparently was a suicide but that he couldn't be sure until an autopsy was performed.

Finding the body ended a search which began Tuesday when the girl's mother, Mrs. William Flint of Cambridge, widow of a former instructor at fashionable St. Paul's school in Concord, N. H., reported her missing.

Police Chief Ernest Damon said a .22 calibre Winchester rifle was found about 10 or 15 feet from the body and that the girl's clothing was scattered several feet away.

British To Get Extra Christmas Rations

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 28—Britain's food ministry today promised the people extra food rations during the Christmas season.

Minister John Stratchey said Britons may buy an extra six pence (10 cents) worth of meat—enough for a scanty meal if spent on cheaper grades; an extra pound and a half of sugar, and an extra four ounces or candy.

The British, whose rations are skimpier than the worst days of the war, originally get one shilling (20 cents) worth of meat and a half pound of sugar a week, and one pound of candy a month.

SMOKE ROUTS 140 AT HOTEL

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28—One hundred and forty guests—among them an invalid — were routed safely from the Reid hotel today as smoke billowed up from an elevator pit fire. Fire Battalion Chief Wayne Peterman said the fire probably was caused either by a cigaret or a short circuit.

Non-condensing steam locomotives turn about seven per cent of the energy transmitted to them into power; condensing locomotive and gasoline engines are about 25 per cent efficient on the same basis and Diesel locomotives are about 33 per cent efficient.

Television Foreseen As Major Industry

By The United Press

NEW YORK—A new billion-dollar industry will be with us by 1960, according to Orrin E Dunlap Jr, in the preface to his revised edition of "The Future of Television" (Harper, $3).

But before television can reach its majority, new techniques must be developed that will enchant the American eye as radio has captivated the ear, he believes

Pointing out that television is essentially show business, Dunlap believes the standard radio programs will not do at all For instance, speechmakers will have to cut their talks to 10 or 15 minutes or run the risk of boring the 'televiewer,' whose patience is reputedly shorter than that of the radio listener He wrote

"Until television can offer headline events in all classes of entertainment it cannot hope to compete with the radio set, the electric stove and refrigerator as a utility in the home The eye does not cherish amateurish telecasts"

Dunlap's book considers the technical aspects of television as well as forthcoming visual feasts in news, sports events, cartoons and movies

State's Geography Is Puzzler To Everybody

By The United Press

FORT YATES N D—Teaching the geographical location of cities in North Dakota is no snap, in the opinion of Ruth Mortensen grade school supervisor at the Fort Yates Indian agency

She says even teachers get confused

"Take the city of Cavalier, for instance," she said

Cavalier is not the county seat of Cavalier county as one would assume Instead it's the county seat of Pembina county and Pembina is 'just another town'

Likewise Steele is not the county seat of McHenry county—nearly distant county of Kidder

Then there's Towner, the county seat of McHenry county—nearly 75 miles from Towner county. McKenzie in Burleigh county—nearly 75 miles from Towner county and Hettinger, county seat of Adams county, which adjoins the county of Hettinger
